DEPARTMENT OF CIVIL ENGINEERING

Report on Usage of ICT Tools

ICT tools are devices or objects used in information and communication technology e.g.: - computers, cell phones, cell phone towers, video conferencing software, radio, television, laptop etc. During this digital era, it has become very evident that ICT tools can enhance teaching and learning process. ICT tools help in transforming teaching and learning process from teacher oriented to student-centered. Students these days are very handy with several ICT tools such as laptops, tablets, i-pads, smartphones etc. hence utilizing this resource in teaching and learning process has become a necessity.

We the Department of Civil Engineering, utilize different ICT tools in teaching and learning process. We execute our lectures on Microsoft Teams platform in online mode, maintain daily attendance using Microsoft as well as Google forms and Microsoft Excel. We also monitor student's continuous progress through assignment allocation and assessment through Assignment Module in Microsoft Teams and giving back the feedback on the spot. For practicing lab experiments students use Virtual Labs Platform.

In addition to this our faculties have also started utilizing platforms like YouTube and Microsoft Stream to make their video lectures available 24x7. Our department has MoU with i-NODE Software Company which provides a government approved software for designing of Water Treatment Plant to the students. We also utilize several other designing software like Auto CAD, STAAD PRO, and ETABS etc. which helps our students to be industry ready. Along with notes we also provide PPT, informative and related video links to students.

Cloud storage is the best option to store, manage and share data remotely and we take its advantage to the fullest. All the departmental documents are being digitized slowly and stored on one drive. Photos, Videos and other files are also stored on shared drive so all faculties can manage and access them irrespective of their location. Our Institute also promotes use of ERP for paperless office work.

Department of Basic Engineering

Report on ICT tools usage

Date:12/02/2022

Details:

“Teaching in the Internet age means we must teach tomorrow’s skills today”.

ICT (Information and Communication Technology) refers to efficient management of information with the use of hardware and software.

Can be used to transmit, store, create, share or exchange particular task. It plays a very important role in the way we communicate, learn and live.

We at Basic Engineering Department use MS teams for conducting lectures, giving assignments, evaluation, conducting quiz, attendance, share the study material and create teams for different divisions.

Use one drive for multiple accessing of the data shared on cloud and perform the collaborative tasks, storing the recordings of the lectures.

Whiteboard is used as a digital canvas for sharing the content.

We also have created YouTube channel in which we have shared the practical recordings, numerical solving methods, explanation for difficult topics, so that the students can view the videos as per their convenience.

Many of us use power point presentations for delivering the lectures, share the links for NPTEL videos, links for e-books, MCQs solving methods.

At the beginning we also use Zoom for conduction of bridge course, as the students mail ID of Microsoft Outlook are being created after the confirmation of admission. Once the students get the mail ID we gradually shift to MS teams and train the students and make them familiar with all the tools available in MS teams.

Parent Teachers Meet are also conducted on Zoom, as the parents do not have the MS mail ID.

Google classroom is also used for sharing the content, google forms for conducting exams and evaluating and posting the results, attendance marking, and getting feedbacks from students.

Cameras have been installed in each classroom for virtual view of black board teaching.

Important notifications are being shared on Telegram Channel for the faster communication both to students and parents.
